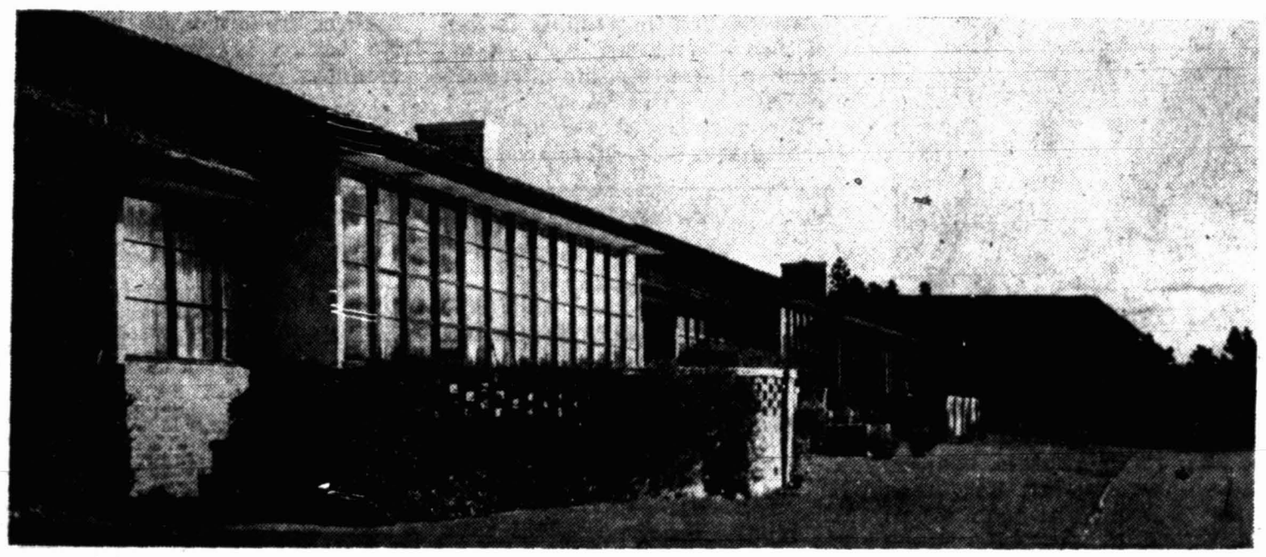
The Carmel Pine Cone



Carmel High School is shown above as it looked when it opened in September of 1940. The facility consisted of a group of five small buildings connected by arcaded corridors. Housed in the buildings were the administration office, library, facilities for home economics, science and commercial instruction and classrooms. Through the past quarter of a century, the school has expanded in all directions on the 22-acre campus. The latest addition is the recently opened team teaching lecture hall. On Tuesday evening, as an event of Public Schools Week, Carmel High School officially celebrated its 25th birthday with an open house for parents.

Carmel High Business Program Is Inadequate Subcommittee Reports

Carmel High School, compared with Monterey and Pacific Grove high schools, has an inadequate business education curriculum, members of the subcommittee on business education of the Citizens Advisory Committee reported to the board of education last night. A minority report from a former member of this committee also criticized the business curriculum.

Last night, Hank Fonseca, chairman of the subcommittee, and Howard Brunn and Clem Ale, members of the committee, discussed their report with the board. Mrs. James E. Kramer commented on her minority report.

Carmel does not have a true business curriculum at the present time because business courses now offered are on an elementary basis, scheduling is inadequate, and this is reflected in the attitude of the students, the committee report stated.

The committee recommended that a business program that would benefit the terminal student be adopted. This program would also aid an academic student interested in pursuing a college business education, the report added.

Courses of substance, such as business law and business organization should be added to the curriculum was another committee suggestion.

Other suggestions were: (a) the present work-study retailing program should be retained as now offered wtih a possible expansion of the program of student participation in local businesses; (b) program of talks and demonstrations by local business people would be of great value to this class; (c) bookkeeping classes should be incorporated into an introduction to accounting course; (d) immediate addition of one faculty member with an adequate background in business subjects; (e) a course in economics be introduced and made a requirement for graduation for all students.

Were the above suggestions incorporated into the business curriculum, the subcommittee's report stated that the attitudes of both students and faculty to business education would improve.

Stressed was the fact that the present business program has little attraction to the male student, especially the terminal male student who has no opportunity to attain a business background to aid him in finding employment at any level of business.

The report concluded with the observation that, because of the continuing growth that must be anticipated at the high school, consideration must be given to the future employment of teachers adequately trained in business subjects. As the number of students increases, so will the demand for an adequate program of business education.

"We must meet this demand as we are doing with the demand for the academic program," the subcommittee stated.

Mrs. Kramer's minority report pointed out that the number of terminal students is increasing as the student body is now drawn from more diverse backgrounds. Approximately 20 percent of the members of a graduating class do not go to college and approximately 50 percent of those who enroll at Monterey Peninsula College do not complete more than one year of studies.

Arts Commission Asks Council For More Members

Carmel arts commissioners took steps on Tuesday to ensure better attendance at their meetings. Only five of the seven commissioners were present, one more than the week before.

Those at Tuesday's meeting decided to ask the city council to increase the membership of the commission from seven to 11 members and to establish a requirement that the seat of any member be declared vacant if he or she were absent without permission for 60 days.

Peg Miner was appointed manager of the Forest Theater for the summer months at a total salary of $500 for this period. Commissioners then planned free Sunday afternoon performances during the summer at the Forest Theater.

Commissioner Marjorie Wurzmann, at the request of Chairman Barbara Norberg, agreed to give a piano recital at the municipal outdoor theatre on June 27, provided a suitable piano can be rented for this program and others. Other proposed Forest Theater Sunday programs are a return performance of the Stuart Highlanders pipe and drum band; two Monterey County Symphony concerts; a folk festival; Opera Workshop presentation; possible performances by a trio and a magician; and a ballet program by the pupils of Kyra Ivanovsky.

Also scheduled for this summer at the Forest Theater, arts commissioners noted, were two plays. One of these will be the annual children's play presented under the auspices of the Carmel Unified School District's summer recreation program. The other will be presented by the Community Theatre group.

Carmel Planners Oppose Refinery For Humble Oil

Strong opposition to the proposed Humble Oil Company oil refinery at Moss Landing was expressed yesterday afternoon by Carmel planning commissioners when they authorized a letter which will be sent to both the Monterey County Planning Commission and the board of supervisors.

This letter will ask both county bodies to deny a use permit for the refinery "unless there is positive proof that there will be no air or water pollution."

The Carmel city council already has opposed the refinery which will be considered by the county planning commission on May 11 at 8 p.m. in the Salinas city council chambers.

Carmel commissioners yesterday decided to study possible control of new motels by limiting the number of units on one site as requested by the city council. They decided that it was not within the commission's province to recommend limitation of the number of units under one ownership or management. This was another proposal for study made by the council. City Attorney John Morse supported the commission in its stand on this matter.

Commissioner Fred Keeble took exception to a statement made by Councilman Gunnar Norberg. At the April 21 council meeting Mr.

Carmel High School Is Result Of Hard Work And Enthusiasm That Surmounted Bitter Strife

Two years of extraordinary community effort ended on September 10, 1940, when students attended classes for the first time at Carmel High School. During the 24 months prior to the opening, the community first rallied to give overwhelming support to a high school of its own, then split bitterly over the selection of a site.

Despite this rift and opposition from Monterey, determined citizens progressed towards their goal encouraged by the words of Charles van Riper, who, at the beginning of the battle said,

"If there is ever to be a Carmel High School, all of us will have to work for it, hard and fast."

In the summer of 1938, the idea of a high school for the then Sunset School elementary district attracted considerable attention and a fact finding committee was formed. Attending Monterey High School were 128 students from the Sunset district. The assessed valuation of the Sunset district including Carmel, Carmel Point, Carmel Woods, Hatton Fields and the southern part of Pebble Beach was $9,000,000. Taxpayers in these areas paid 28 percent of the cost of maintaining Monterey Union High School for 12 percent of the school's attendance, plus $29 a day to bus students over the hill.

CITIZENS MEET

In August of 1938, the fact finding committee for the proposed high school, through Peter Mawdsley, presented a financial picture advantageous to taxpayers in the Sunset district at an open meeting. At the same meeting, Dr. John C. Almack, Stanford University expert on school problems, described the advantages of decentralization and neighborhood schools. He estimated Sunset district could have its own high school for $300,000. It was one of the largest and wealthiest districts in California.

Mr. Mawdsley pointed out that the tax rate to accomplish this would not be greater than added taxation necessary to buy a site and build a proposed larger Monterey High School.

Those at the meeting also were informed: (a) a petition to have a high school would need the signatures of two-thirds of the voters in the Sunset District before, (b) the Monterey high school board could be asked to allow Carmel to obtain 5,000 signatures from voters in the 105-mile long Monterey district on a second petition permitting secession procedure.

Charles van Riper headed a committee to obtain the first 1,651 signatures from voters in Sunset District. He divided the district into areas with chairmen. They were Robert Leidig, E. A. H. Watson, Mrs. Howard Walters, Mrs. Lita Bathen, Henry H. Hasty, Mrs. Gertrude Morehouse, Mrs. Arthur Strasburger, and Guy Koepp. These chairmen recruited workers who canvassed house to house.

Within two months, the signatures were obtained, a bond election was called, six sites were chosen, an architect consulted and the chief of the state division of school planning informed of the Sunset district's intention to establish a high school.

SITES PROPOSED

The sites were the Carnegie Laboratory land at the east end of Eleventh Street; Hatton Fields Mesa opposite Carmel Mission; a triangular parcel of Paradise Park

When I was young, my politics
Concerned the things I mostly missed,
Like gaining wealth by legal tricks—
So I became a Socialist.

The infant mind in age and youth
Believes in sharing unearned gains;
But later on I learned the truth
That progress needs a thing called brains.

I liked paternal government,
So joined the Democratic trend,
Which promised pensions, heaven sent,
But taxes got me in the end.

I'm older now; I've got it made,
Though still a proletarian.
I own some land, a house, all paid,
So now I vote Republican.

Demand For Occupancies Already Greater Than Space Available New Sunset Commission Learns

Members of the Sunset Commission, at their first meeting on Monday night learned that the auditorium of the facility, which will become a municipal cultural and community center on July 1, is already booked by the Carmel Bach Festival for the entire month of July; there is a request for another booking for the month of August ;and other groups have scheduled frequent use of the auditorium through December.

Sunset commissioners further learned that requests to occupy parts of the premises by cultural organizations, a pre-school and the Carmel Unified School District exceed space available.

However, they were somewhat dismayed to discover that income from these sources would not provide sufficient funds to cover the operation of the total facility.

Bookings for Sunset auditorium have been made by City Clerk Hugh Bayless for the Bach Festival, a folk festival, travel movies, county symphony rehearsals and concerts, the Carmel Music Society, and a barbershop quartet performance. A three-day request for the auditorium has been received from three medical societies which hold conventions annually in Carmel. Sunset commissioners authorized the city clerk to continue processing requests for the use of the auditorium.

Requests for space in other parts of the school facility have been received from the American Federation of Arts, Carmel Music Society, Bach Festival, Carmel Adult School, Carmel Crafts Guild and persons who desire to open

Lloyd Miller Was On First CHS Staff

By Ron Bucher

At Carmel High School we have two teachers now who were on the original faculty. They are Mr. Lloyd Miller and Mr. Donald Craig. Coach George Mosolf came a year later. Mr. Miller, who now has been teaching business courses at Carmel High School for 25 years, remembers when there were 250 students and the school was like one big happy family.

He recalls when the dances used to be held in the library. The students used to dance with the faculty and the teachers' husbands or wives.

At that time there was no gym. The building which is now the transportation building used to be the shower room. There were so many holes in the roof that the water just fell through and made a splendid shower. The barn at the Mission Ranch used to be the gym. Carmel players were able to shoot over the rafters and make baskets, but other schools' players who had only played there once, usually hit the rafters instead of the backboard.

Mr. Miller has taught at least 25 daughters or sons of former students and is now enjoying teaching with some of his former students who are on the faculty.

Carmel's growth in size and the great change in our athletic league have created a different type of student-to-student and student-to-faculty relationship, Mr. Miller says, but he feels that the students of today have the same good qualities and are basically as nice as the students of the earlier Carmel High School days.

CARMEL HIGH GRADUATES NOW ON THE FACULTY

Carmel High School graduates who now teach at their former school are Peter Lyon who graduated in 1950; John Graham, 1944; Mrs. Phyllis Crockett, 1946; Jason Harbert, 1943.

CARMEL WOMAN'S CLUB

"What Makes the Wheels Go 'Round (Why We Act as We Do)" is the title of a lecture by Dr. Beryl D. Orris to be presented by program chairman Rhea Diveley at the Carmel Woman's Club on Monday.

Dr. Orris, a student of both Sigmund Freud and Havelock Ellis, is an expert in many fields, including human relations, problems of youth and mental health. The lecture should be of interest to all members in understanding the reasons motivating behavior.

Presiding at the tea following the program will be Mrs. Frank Heywood, Mrs. Dudley Miles, Mrs. Ian L. Belangee and Mrs. Eugene Ingalls.

Pictured above is Otto Bardarson who became the first principal of Carmel High School when it opened in 1940. He was also superintendent of the Carmel Unified School District. Mr. Bardarson died in 1942 and the high school football field is named Bardarson Field in memory of him.

J. Wilson Getsinger succeeded Mr. Bardarson and was principal of Carmel High School for one year. Ernest Bramlett was principal the following year. In 1945 Leo A. Harris became principal and was succeeded by Stuart Mitchell in 1947. Mr. Mitchell was principal until 1952. Up to this time, the principals also served as superintendents of the school district. Mr. Mitchell, in 1953 became the first superintendent without the responsibility of the high school principalship.

Warren W. Edwards took his place as principal of Carmel High in 1953 and is the present principal.

Carmel Students Attend Art Seminar

Nine Carmel high school and junior high school students, talented in art, color, and design, are participating in the latest of a series of art seminars sponsored by the Lyceum of the Monterey Peninsula.

Under the direction of an artist, Virginia Blair Hannon, the group, 32 members in all, meets once a week at MPC for two hours of advanced art instruction.

The seminar runs for a total of 12 hours teaching time, with subject matter focused on portraits, still life, and landscaping.

Students attending from Carmel High School are Barbara Pearson, Laurie Wishart, and Candi Martin.

Alexander Gandzjuk, Cathy McFann, Joey Bow, Jean Reppy, and Judy Schach represent Carmel Junior High School, while Carey Crockett from Tularcitos is also a member.

Coordinating the seminar is Carmel resident and Lyceum art chairman, Mrs. Arthur Strasburger Jr.

"The purpose of our art seminars," states Mrs. Strasburger "is to give students with real ability a chance to further their work experience.."

Mrs. Hannon, a Monterey resident, is donating her time to lead the seminar. A graduate of the Chicago Art Institute, she was recently picked by John Boit Morse as one of the top ten artists in the area.

Mrs. Carl Hering, Lyceum president, announces that enough funds have been secured to present another art seminar this summer. Interested students should contact their counselors or art instructors. No tuition is charged for these seminars.

Mr. Mosolf Tells About His Years As Carmel High Coach

By Rod Sibley

Mr. George Mosolf first came to Carmel High in 1941, one year after we had our first footbali team. Coach Mosolf remembers very vividly that the only field our boys had to practice on, was what is now the girls' field. Then the area was covered with rocks. Only after our student body got together and removed the rocks were they able to have practice. Our first gridiron team brought out 17 boys, Mr. Mosolf recalls. There was only one shower for all of them. It was located in what now is the maintenance building.

He says that the spirit and pride among the students and faculty were tremendous, but adds, however, that the school was much smaller which brought the students closer together. He thinks that the decline in school spirit and interests is due to nothing more than the increased population of the school.

In 1941 we had just gotten our gym, and the whole student body could sit on the east side of it with room to spare.

Mr. Mosolf remembers well the year he coached both varsity and junior varsity football, varsity and lightweight basketball, varsity and j.v. baseball, the track team, the swimming team and the tennis team.

I asked him which one of his teams first won a championship, or which one he remembers best. His answer was, that as far as he was concerned, they were all champions, and that he will remember them all in the same way.

In the football season of 1960, when the Carmel Padres had compiled a record of 33 wins and no losses, after four years unmarred by defeat, Coach Mosolf was named the Number Two prep coach in Northern California.

Since his retirement from coaching in 1960, he has continued teaching physical education at the high school and the junior high.

Mr. Mosolf retired from the position of head coach in 1961 but remained on the staff as a physical education teacher. During his first 20 years at Carmel, Mr. Mosolf taught some 5,000 Carmel youngsters how to swim, developed seven CCAL championship football teams. He said that "the most valuable man, without whom I couldn't have operated" was Donald Craig, volunteer football assistant coach and Spanish teacher.

Mission Ranch Was Used For Basketball

by Chris Borregaard

In March, 1941, Mr. Jason Harbert moved from Colorado and joined the sophomore class at Carmel High. At the time of his graduation in 1943, Mr. Otto Bardarson was the principal.

During his years at Carmel High, Mr. Harbert played football, basketball, and baseball and was coached by Mr. George Mosolf. The football team practiced on the dirt on the girls' field and played its first game on the new field at the end of Mr. Harbert's junior year—he was game captain.

Basketball practices took place in the Mission Ranch barn. Most games were played away, but round-robin travel was restricted because of the war. The gym was completed in Mr. Harbert's senior year and the school spirit at games was great, he says.

Extra-curricular activities played a very important part in school life at that time. The classes were small, and atmosphere throughout the school was informal and friendly. This helped make Mr. Harbert's years at Carmel High very pleasant. He participated in many activities, including student government, choir, orchestra, and three sports. Academic requirements were just about the same as today and homework didn't seem too heavy. Academic studies centered more in the classroom than at home.

The facilities were good, and everyone was extremely proud of the school. Students used to help janitors clear fields and make the campus lovely.

Mr. Harbert is proud of the school that provided him with such happy memories of his high school years. He is presently coaching, counseling, and teaching at Carmel High School.

FOOTBALL CHAMPIONSHIPS

The coveted championship of the Coast Counties Athletic League and later the Mission Trails Athletic League has been won by Carmel High School in these years—1949, 1957, 1959, 1960, 1962, 1963.

GOLD C WINNERS

The Gold C Award is given to graduating seniors at Carmel High School who are selected by the juniors as best in their class according to their scholastic records, athletic prowess and service to the school. This award was instituted by Leo A. Harris, principal and superintendent of schools from 1945 to 1947.

Donald Craig On First CHS Faculty

by Luann Buckham

Donald Craig, Carmel High School Spanish teacher, says he "came with the school" because he was a member of the original faculty when the school opened in 1940 with a student body of 250 boys and girls. At that time there was no youth center and the school was the center of teenage activity. Noon dances were held in the library where the books were covered with decorative paper.

The Spanish class had a barbecue in 1940 where the swimming pool now is. Carmel High had no pool at that time. The Drama Club put on a moving picture "melodrama" on the beach. There was no regular athletic league but Carmel High teams played Salinas and Monterey. Interest in the school was higher than it is now, Mr. Craig states.

In 1940, there was no grass on the playfields. The gym did not exist and there was no shop instruction. The curriculum was entirely college preparatory.

Students received swimming instruction at the Del Monte Hotel swimming pool. This now the pool of the U.S. Naval Postgraduate School.

Principal Otto Bardarson, a former champion of wrestling in Iceland, was also the superintendent of schools and he had one secretary on his staff.

The front of Carmel High School appeared the same in 1941 as it does today but the parking lot was unpaved. Only the first two rows of the present facility were built at that time. The site of these buildings was a slope of wildflowers and trees. Homemaking was taught in a room built like an apartment so that students could learn how to keep, decorate and furnish a house.

The school was only two years old when the United States entered World War II. Mr. Craig left to serve in the Navy and was the skipper of a PT boat in the Mediterranean.

Mr. Craig has served as a member of the Carmel City Council and the Carmel Planning Commission and on the Harrison Memorial Library Board.

FIRST CHS YEARBOOK DEDICATED TO CARMEL PEOPLE 1941

To the people of Carmel, whose farsightedness and generosity have given us Carmel High School, we dedicate our first yearbook.

May this record of our activities reflect some of the pride we feel in this hilltop school, fashioned from the stone and soil of Carmel and whose spacious windows frame the Carmel Valley and the rising Santa Lucia mountains. Our appreciation is unbounded for all who have helped to create this school. We wish it were possible to express our gratitude to each one by name.

Thank you, Carmel.

Jean Elston Engaged

When Jeanie Elston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas S. Elston Jr., came home from the University of California at Davis recently she was proudly wearing the engagement ring she has accepted from Don Gary Cropper Jr. Her fiance is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Gary Cropper Sr. of Stratford, California.

Jeanie, who is a graduate student at Davis, has chosen to be married at her parents' home on Carmel Point on June 16, but the young couple accept the fact that Gary's military status may alter the date. He has just begun a six month tour of duty at Fort Polk, Louisiana, having been a member of the National Guard while a student at U.C. at Davis, where he graduated in the field of food technology.

Jeanie's sisters, Pat and Helen, will have a part in the wedding plans, of course. Pat is now a computer programmer in a new Stanford University experiment known as a computer education laboratory, which may well be the classroom of the future.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERMON

The spiritual requirements for release from guilt and suffering will be examined at Christian Science church services this Sunday. Subject of the Bible Lesson is "Everlasting Punishment." Included in the Scriptural passages to be presented are these verses from Ezekiel: "Make you a new heart and a new spirit . . . For I have no pleasure in the death of him that dieth, saith the Lord God: wherefore turn yourselves, and live ye."

These related passages will be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "The way to escape the misery of sin is to cease sinning . . . The belief in sin and death is destroyed by the law of God, which is the law of Life instead of death, of harmony instead of discord, of Spirit instead of the flesh" (pp. 327, 253).

Oregonians Hope To Stay

Three years ago, Mr. and Mrs. Morgan Johnson, then residents of Klamath Falls, Oregon, saw Carmel for the first time, fell in love with it and purchased a house before their vacation came to an end. The Johnsons, who now live in Medford, are in Carmel for a few weeks while the house is unoccupied.

Mr. Johnson recently sold his interests in a chain of grocery stores and dress shops but is not yet ready to retire completely. Therefore, the finding of a part-time outlet for his energies will determine whether or not Mrs. Johnson can summon the moving vans and notify their friends that Carmel is to be their permanent home.

Couples Take Flight

Early this morning, Howard and Courtney Brunn and Harold and Yvonne Saunders took off from Monterey airport and headed the nose of Harold's plane toward Alamos, Mexico. The two men will take turns as pilots on their journey. Courtney Brunn will take turns covering her eyes first with one hand and then the other—this is the reluctant-small-plane-traveler's first trip to Mexico.

The two couples will be gone about 12 days, stopping at Guadalajara en route to Puerto Vallarta, whose airfield is well known to Howie Brunn. While in Vallarta, they will occupy apartments owned by Margaret and Bert Dienelt, which are ideally situated above the river for watching dogs, burros, people and sunsets.

State Department Visitor

Robert Heavey, on leave between assignments in his position as a security officer with the State Department, was a visitor last week at the home of his sister, Miss Helen Heavey. His next post will be the first in this country in over 20 years. During that time, Mr. Heavey has been stationed in almost any spot one can mention, including among them Saigon, Rio de Janeiro, Siam, Korea and numerous places in Africa.

Return From Africa

Emile Norman and Brooks Clement are back in Carmel and Big Sur after their exciting safari, still savoring and recalling the adventures encountered during three months in East Africa. Mr. Norman returns with full portfolios of sketches and is completing a series of tempera paintings. Following completion of current sculpture commissions, he plans to draw upon his African experiences for polychrome sculptures of birds, animals and human figures. These, with his paintings, will form the basis for a show, probably in July, at the Emile Norman Gallery here.

New Associate Professor

Donald Matteson has been named an associate professor of chemistry at Washington State University, according to a newspaper clipping received from his wife, the former Sunny Cook and daughter of the Pine Cone's publisher, Clifford Cook.

Sunny writes that Spring was as dismal in Pullman, Washington, as elsewhere—by Easter there was only a single fragile daffodil, which bloomed along with the children's measles. Karen and Eric are fine now, however, and with improvement in the weather the family is proceeding with plans for their new house.

Capacity Audience Appreciates Comedy In 'The Chalk Garden' At Golden Bough Circle Theatre

"The Chalk Garden" by Enid Bagnold, an odd comedy with an odd set of characters, drew frequent applause and appreciative laughter from a capacity audience at the Golden Bough Circle Theatre on opening night last weekend.

In no small part, the success of the play depended on the direction of Barnett Owen who achieved intimacy between the audience and the nine players on the arena stage at all times. This intimacy was enhanced by skilful timing and natural delivery of lines.

The setting for "The Chalk Garden" is a room in an English manor house belonging to Mrs. St. Maugham, an eccentric elderly woman who tries to cultivate flowers in unresponsive chalky ground and affection in seemingly unresponsive human hearts. Although she lavishes attention on both plants and people she does not employ correct techniques to achieve satisfaction until . . . The resolution of her problems is the humorously odd plot of the play.

Ruth Marion McElroy portrays Mrs. St. Maugham's unconventionalities and frustrations in an accomplished and truly amusing manner, thus adding another successful role to the many she has played on local stages.

Her protagonist in the plot is Miss Madrigal, a most odd governess played by Marcia Hovick. From the moment she enters the household its inhabitants and the garden come under her control. The total situation is immeasurably improved by the attention she gives to her disturbed pupil, Mrs. St. Maugham's unnaturally inquisitive and hysterical granddaughter.

If there be any criticism of Marcia Hovick's fine interpretation of this taxing role, it would be that she inclines to be a trifle overdramatic in her reactions at the outset of the play and so tends to give away her secret before the denouement of the plot begins to unfold.

Her 16-year-old pupil, Laurel, is the role of Penelope Nesbitt, the same age as the character she plays. This part, unless properly directed, could be horrifying and without humor. Again Mr. Owen's skilful direction gave control to Miss Nesbitt's acting. Her portrayal of an almost unbelievable teen-ager motivated by jealousy of her absent mother is sensitive and believingly realistic with overtones of amusement.

Frederick Rider plays the part of Maitland, as amusingly odd a servant as ever entered any household. He weaves his part into the fabric of the play in an effortless manner which attests his acknowledged dramatic talents.

Mason Wright, as the Judge, catches together all the hanging threads of the plot. His interpretation of an aging English jurist is one of the best characterizations in the history of Carmel's little theatre.

Laurel's mother, Olivia, is the part assigned to Margaret Phillips and, alas, she treats her role as an assignment. Barbara Kendall as a nurse doesn't say much but the way in which she delivers her few lines, her facial expressions and manner add true comedy to the play. Her patient is the aged and dying, but still autocratic, butler of the St. Maugham menage. He never appears on stage but absence adds to the comedy situation.

Two other applicants for the position of governess in the St. Maugham household are taken by Helen Nessel and Cornelia Palms. Although minor parts, they are important to the plot and, well played as they are, add more humor to "The Chalk Garden."

Barbara Tripp designed the scenery. Authentic set furnishings were obtained by Billie Heaton assisted by Helen Ehman. Gertrude Chappel is to be congratulated for her costuming. George Thomas is production manager for "The Chalk Garden"; Brian Casiday, stage manager. Lucy Page Allen and Layne Littlepage handle properties and Charles B. Richmond, light and sound. Furniture construction necessary for the set is the work of Ralph Hunner. Production assistants are Sally Reichard, Marcia Rider and Peter Stergios.

"The Chalk Garden" will be repeated on Friday, Saturday and Sunday evenings at 8:30 p.m. through June 6 and, judging by opening night, to full houses.

MPC VISITING SCIENTIST TO GIVE PUBLIC TALK MAY 4

Dr. L. Carrol King, Northwestern University professor, will arrive at Monterey Peninsula College on Tuesday to spend two days on campus as "Visiting Scientist in Chemistry."

His visit will be sponsored by the Division of Chemical Education of the American Chemical Society through financial support from the National Science Foundation.

A schedule of lectures to science classes is being arranged, and Dr. King will be available to students and faculty at various times during the two days for informal conferences on "whatever topics are of interest to them," according to Gordon Williams, MPC chemistry department chairman.

Also planned is a public lecture on a non-technical subject, "Chemical Additives in Our Foods," for May 4, 8 p.m. in the MPC Music Hall. All interested persons are invited to attend without charge.

HEAR ABOUT OPERA TOUR

At last Thursday's meeting of the Carmel Kiwanis Club, Judge Eugene Harrah described in detail the European opera tour which he and Mrs. Harrah took last month. The tour provided many a delight, also interesting comparisons between performances of musicians and singers, opera houses and settings.

The Harrahs, in their travels, heard Berg's Wozak at the Metropolitan in New York; Mussorgsky's Boris Goudonov, sung in German, in Zurich; Verdi's La Traviata and Richard Strauss' Salome in Paris; another performance of La Traviata and Strauss' Elektra in London; Wagner's Lohengrin at La Scala in Milan; the new opera, Wallenstein, in Rome; Strauss' Ariadne and Verdi's Forza del Destino in Vienna; and Puccini's Tosca in Munich.

Atomic Program At Carmel High Monday

A demonstration lecture program, titled "This Atomic World," will be presented in an assembly program at Carmel High School on Monday.

The program, sponsored by the United States Atomic Energy Commission, is presented by the Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Studies, Oak Ridge, Tennessee.

The institute is a nonprofit, educational corporation of 40 Southern universities and colleges, operating under contract with the Atomic Energy Commission. The traveling exhibits, which visit hundreds of high schools throughout the United States each year, are designed to provide the public with a better understanding of atomic energy.

Walter V. Thomas, an exhibits manager who has received special training in nuclear science, will present the program. Mr. Thomas holds a bachelor of science degree from Knoxville College in Tennessee.

The demonstrations and lectures are designed specifically to acquaint high school students with the basic principles and uses of atomic energy and to stimulate their interest in science.

Subjects to be covered include atomic structure, the nucleus and radioactivity, radiation biology and fission and fusion. The uses of radioisotopes are also included. The application of these isotopes in agriculture, industry, and medicine is an important aspect of the non-military use of atomic energy.

Following the assembly presentation of exhibits and visual aids, Mr. Thomas is available for classroom sessions with science students.

ART AUCTION CONTRIBUTORS

Nineteen professional painters and nine prominent photographers have donated their work for the Beacon House Benefit Art Auction, according to Kenneth S. Walker, coordinating chairman of the event.

Among the artists contributing are Teresa Abbott, Ansel Adams, Marjorie Allen, Jim Brown, Wynn Bullock, Grace Colburn, Colonel Elbridge L. Modlin, Semantha Cook, Russell Cummings, John Cunningham, Ephraim Doner, Brooke Elgie, Bernice Fouratt, Rear Admiral Edward C. Forsyth, Virginia Fry, Henry Gilpin, Alex Gonzales, Anna Hoffman, Joyce Jenkins, Ida Laura Leach, John Boit Morse, Henrietta Pearce, Stanley Pearce, Richard Rodriguez, Dennis Rowedder, Cush Walker, and Al Weber.

Mrs. Ruth Warshawsky has donated a painting by her late husband, A. G. Warshawsky, entitled "Small Boy."

The art auction will be held at the Terrace Room at the Mark Thomas Inn on May 16 preceded by brunch at noon. There will be a champagne and coffee preview open to the public on May 12 from 8 to 10 p.m.

Paintings and prints may be paid for on a contract basis: a one-quarter down payment and the balance within three months.

Proceeds from the auction will go to Beacon House, Monterey Peninsula's rehabilitation center for alcoholics.

At a recent steering committee meeting it was announced that John Cunningham, president of the Carmel Art Association and director of the Carmel Art Institute, and Charles Thomas of Carmel Highlands will hang the paintings; Owen Patrick of Carmel Valley and Al Weber, Monterey Peninsula photographer and Monterey Peninsula College instructor, are in charge of the photography exhibit.

Mr. Cunningham is also serving as technical consultant for the auction, Mr. Thomas will be auctioneer, and Mr. Patrick is serving as chairman of the photography committee.

Reservations may be made by calling 624-2256 or 624-5641, or by writing P.O. Box 1058, Carmel. Tickets for the entire program, including brunch, are $3.50. Tickets to the auction only are $1 each.

The American Federation of Arts serendipity auction on Sunday will start promptly at 3 p.m. at the Carmel Valley Golf and Country Club, with auction material on display to the public from 2 o'clock. Daniel Turrentine of Laporte Auction Galleries has volunteered his services for the event. He will be assisted by Richard Osborne. Tickets will be available at the door. The auction catalogue offers a varied array from furniture to bottles of rare wine. Proceeds will further the A.F.A.'s goal to establish a permanent museum for the Monterey Peninsula where a collection of the work of local artists will be gathered.

Mrs. Harry R. Lusignan is chairman for the hostess group which will assist with the sale. She will be aided by Mrs. Jesse Coe, Mrs. Frank Bray, Mrs. Judson Sherrill, Mrs. Charles Snorf, Mrs. J. Ritchie Dunn, Mrs. Clark Ehman, Mrs. A. Carol McKenney, Mrs. James C. Doud, Mrs. Chapman Aitkenhead, Mrs. Richard Pennoyer, Mrs. Lawson Little, Mrs. Sam Manning, Mrs. Will van der Sluis, Mrs. Richard Murtland, Mrs. Gerard Martin, Mrs. Douglas Graham, Mrs. Richard Mack and Joy and Gay Powers.

The American Federation of Arts gallery headquarters at Lincoln and Ocean has tickets available as has The Wells Book Store at the Carmel Rancho Shopping Center.

The sixth annual Art Mart of the Salinas Fine Arts Club opened today at Harnish Music Store in Sherwood Gardens and will continue through Saturday.

The paintings in this show are all for sale and the prices are reasonable. A percentage of proceeds from each sale goes to the club's yearly scholarship to a deserving Hartnell fine arts student going on to advanced schooling in art.

Salinas Fine Arts Club is the oldest art group in the Salinas area and is concerned with the importance of art in the life of the community. Purposes of the club, a non-profit organization, are to provide a means of circulating and showing the work of local artists, both amateur and professional, and to cultivate creative interest and talent in the community. This is done through the annual Art Mart in the spring and a fall show at the Salinas Public Library, also through the free lectures and demonstrations by well-known artists and by the presentation of the art scholarships. Membership in the club this year is over 100. Only active members are allowed to participate in the spring and fall shows.

Assembly Speaker Jesse M. Unruh on April 22 lashed out an "unfair, unhealthy tax which keeps many good works of art from being shown in California and seriously impairs the development and recognition of the country's most populous state as a cultural center comparable to New York, Massachusetts and other states."

The Assembly Speaker introduced a bill exempting works of art from the use tax which is levied on goods purchased outside of California and then brought into the state.

"This tax," Unruh said, "works directly against the cultural enrichment of California, and does so without producing more than a very small amount of revenue."

He said the use tax is seldom collected on works of art which are brought into the state for private purposes as most of these are not declared and the law is "next to impossible to enforce in these instances."

"But, when a musuem, a university, or foundation wants to show art which was not purchased in California, they have to pay an exorbitant fee," Unruh said.

As a case in point, he noted that a foundation which lends works of art, without charge, to public museums for exhibition to the general public is loaning a famous Rembrandt in other parts of the country. If the foundation loaned it to the Los Angeles County Museum of Art, it would incur a California use tax of $89,000.

Letters To The Editor . . .

April 12, 1965

Editor
Carmel Pine Cone

The Pine Cone could render the townspeople a service by ascertaining and printing the reasons behind the projected move of the Carmel police station to the Junipero site. There are many who like and want a larger police station at the present location.

The acquisition of the Sunset property should have thrown considerable doubt on the validity of a further projection of city hall buildings on the Junipero property.

May we have the reasons, simply stated, for upsetting an accustomed routine that is practical and working well.

Yours truly,
Wallace E. Doolittle

Editor's note: The general plan of the city, adopted after study and public hearings by both the city council and planning commission, proposes a civic center including a new city hall and police station on city-owned property between Junipero and Torres streets below Fourth Avenue. Recent city council and planning commission action on the police station and city hall has been in accordance with this plan.

The general plan designates the Sunset School site as a community center. Voters approved this use, plus cultural center use for Sunset a year ago this month. The approval of the $575,000 bond issue to purchase the school and its site was in accordance with the designated general plan use for this property.

The council's recent decision to explore moving the city hall and municipal administrative offices, temporarily, to the Sunset site conforms to the general plan's designations for both the civic center and Sunset.

Neither the language of the bond measure approved last April, nor statements in the feasibility report and official statement prepared by the city's financial advisors, nor the argument in favor of the Sunset bond issue mailed to all registered voters before last April's Sunset bond election mentioned the use of the Sunset property for a city hall or municipal administration offices. Because of this, city attorney John Morse in August of this year, stated that the city might be open to a taxpayer's suit if the city hall and municipal offices were located, permanently, at Sunset.

In 1963, the planning commission reported to the city council that the present site of the police station is not properly located in regard to adjacent commercial development, the city's traffic pattern and the size of streets at the Mission and Eighth corner and that any permanent police station should be located on the Junipero property in accordance with the general plan.

CarmeLights by Piñon

Well, our baseball season opened last Saturday with a real bang. Counting farm teams and Little League together, we now have 13 teams in Carmel. That's a lotta little boys. We had the opening ceremony, very impressive with the call to colors and the oath and Ernie Fischbein's nice, short speech, and three games. We were there from 10 a.m. in the morning until after 6 p.m. that night, and I guess Winnie Snyder and her refreshment booth gang were still cleaning up until almost 8 o'clock.

The hamburger barbecue was a smash success. The dads could hardly cook them fast enough for the moms to sell. In the snack bar about 15 mothers worked three shifts and they didn't stop moving one second. It was roughly estimated that 60 tons of junk went down the throats of our little darlings that day. Three times they ran out of something long and frozen and utterly revolting called Mr. Freeze. And a new candy bar made its appearance, something equally detrimental and delicious as the old favorite Babe Ruth, I have no doubt. It's called Look. Teresa Calcagno, Wilder and Jones' pitcher Chucky's mother, hadn't heard of it. A little girl asked for one and Teresa said, "What do you want?" "Oh, I think I'll just have a Look," the child repeated. "Fine," gasped Teresa, "You just go right ahead and look and I'll rest."

Bea Trosky and her nine-year-old were walking past a local savings and loan building the other day and through the window they could see the president thereof leisurely reading an Esquire. "Well, how do you like that?" Bea commented, "Reading during office hours." "Sure," Ronny said, "Heck, why d'ya think a guy wants to be president?"

Delight Roth

Mrs. Delight Rambeau Roth, the wife of Walter J. Roth, died Tuesday in a local hospital after a brief illness. She was a native of St. Clair, Missouri, where she was born on June 22, 1890.

Mrs. Roth and her husband came to Carmel in 1947, having formerly made their home in Washington, D.C. She was a member of the Church of the Wayfarer.

In addition to her husband, Mrs. Roth is survived by a brother, Verne Rambeau of Farmington, Missouri, and several nieces and nephews.

Private services for Mrs. Roth were held Tuesday in the Mission Mortuary chapel in Monterey.

Carmel Girl Wins Miss County Title

For the fourth time, a Monterey Peninsula College student who is a graduate of Carmel High School has won the title of Miss Monterey County.

On Saturday night, Stephenie Jacot Cummings was chosen to represent this county in the Miss California contest. If she wins the state title she will be eligible to compete for the Miss America title.

Stephenie was announced as the new Miss Monterey County following a pageant sponsored by the Monterey Peninsula Junior Chamber of Commerce.

She is a talented ballet dancer who has studied in England with the Royal Ballet Company. Stephenie also won a scholarship to study with the Pacific Ballet Company of San Francisco and was a soloist with this group for six months. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Cummings.

"I love the releases we get here at the paper. Every kind of organization that ever was—the department of this, the diivsion of that and the national association of this, that and the other—sends out periodic poop sheets in hopes of publicity. And the poor souls who have to write the stuff don't always have anything really to say (sort of like me) but they have to get the releases out in order to keep their organization's name in front of the public.

So now comes one from the National Automobile Club which, after telling us how many people were killed in traffic accidents last year (40,000) and how many new car sales there've been in the last decade (64 million), goes on to inform us that there are 250,000 elk roaming the United States countryside. Which, you have to admit, is very nice to know, especially if you're another elk, and I have no reason to doubt it at all.

But I'm afraid I do have to take issue with the next item. "Dairying is the major industry of Manteca, California," they report, "and this is why the name. In Spanish 'manteca' means butter."

Well, yes, in Spain 'manteca' means butter. In Mexico it means bacon fat, lard, cocoa butter or coconut oil, except in Tzintzuntzan, where it means ice cream.

However, linguistics is a far cry from automobiles and you get A for effort, NAC.

Carmel High School Is Result Of Hard Work

fronting on Carpenter from Ocean to Fourth; four blocks on north Junipero; and the Mission Ranch.

During the same period it was ascertained that the Monterey high school district would do nothing to obstruct a high school for Sunset district. Bernard H. Schulte was chairman of the Monterey board.

The next step was to get those 5,000 signatures from all over the Monterey high school district. Permission to obtain them had been granted reluctantly by Monterey.

'STRIKE HARD'

"Now is the time to strike and strike hard. Carmel must have a high school," van Riper said.

Out went his workers. By December of 1938 the signatures were obtained — 800 more than needed—and Sunset district voters overwhelmingly had approved a $165,000 bond issue to build the school, hoping the rest of the required $300,000 would be provided by the WPA. (It never was).

But a snag had arisen during the same period. The editor of the Monterey daily paper opposed the new high school in his columns and the Monterey high school board about-faced in their attitude towards it.

"Betrayed," cried citizens on this side of the hill but they went right ahead with their plans.

SITE BATTLE STARTS

Then the rift over the site developed in January of 1939, the same month a unified elementary and high school district for this community was approved by a 5-1 vote of the citizens. This vote also authorized that the Sunset district could officially operate as a high school district in July, 1939.

Two of the trustees of the board at this time, Frank Shea and Victor Graham, favored the Paradise Park site. Chairman Doris Watson held out for the present site of the school.

The hazards from traffic were too great to place the school where it now is Mr. Shea and Mr. Graham contended. Popular sentiment in the town revolted against the Paradise Park site. Those who openly opposed it at a school board meeting were Mrs. Markham Johnston, E.A.H. Watson, Mrs. Howard Clark, Herbert Heron and Clay Otto.

TRUSTEES RESIGN

Seemingly faced with opposition on all sides, Mr. Shea and Mr. Graham resigned from the new unified board. Hugh Comstock and Miss Clara Kellogg were appointed to replace them. Mrs. Watson remained as chairman.

All seemed settled that the present site would be chosen, but in March, 1939, Mr. van Riper came out for the Mission Ranch site. He was supported by Robert Stanton. Adolph Hanke, a former trustee, wanted the island of land between the old county road and Highway One to be the site of the high school.

However, Corum Jackson, representing Willis J. Walker, owner of the Mission Ranch, told trustees this site was not available. Bolstered by the approval of the present site by Dr. Charles Bursch, state school housing chief, trustees consulted the architectural firm of Ernest J. and Charles Kump Jr. of Fresno and the $165,000 bonds to build the school were sold to Schwabacher and Co. by the board.

STRAW VOTE ON SITE

In April, 1939, the site battle still raged so trustees decided to hold a straw vote at the same time as a trustee election. Voters elected Mrs. Louis Levinson to the board and approved by a 438-62 vote the trustees' selection of the present high school campus. The site war was over.

On June 31, Peter Mawdsley was appointed to the new five-member Carmel Unified School District Board of Education. Mr. van Riper was asked to be a member but declined. This vacancy was filled by Dr. W. B. Williams.

SITE BOUGHT

On August 31, 1939, the present 22-acre Carmel High School campus was purchased for $31,000 from the Carmel Land Company headed by Paul Flanders. The Carmel Taxpayers Association disapproved this move because no WPA funds appeared to be forthcoming. They also objected to the $81,238 budget for the new school district.

In November, 1939, trustees accepted plans presented by Ernest Kump and the following month sent them to the state for approval. They had $134,000 left from the bond issue to go ahead with construction.

In January, 1940, Shelburn Robison was appointed to the CUSD board to replace Mrs. Watson who had died.

BIDS CALLED

Bids for the construction of the high school were called for February 1, 1940. Thirteen bids were received and the firm of H. C. Geyer of Monterey was selected to build the school for $116,280. Construction was to be four small buildings plus classrooms. The next month, PWA funds for the grounds were approved.

Then it was time to elect permanent board members. Mr. Mawdsley declined to run but Mr. Robison decided to seek a permanent seat. He was elected and so were Peter Ferrante and Harold Nielsen. In June, 1940, the tax rate was set as 61 cents, the same rate as the previous year, by the new board.

HIGH SCHOOL OPENS

In September, 1940 the buildings were completed but desks had not arrived so the opening of the high school was postponed a week.

On September 9, 1940, dedication ceremonies were held in Sunset School auditorium. Following this, all those present undertook a pilgrimage to the high school. The faculty showed the visitors the new facility.

The next day 250 students arrived but not by the path up the hill that now exists. The city had not completed it in time for the opening of Carmel High School. The new school consisted of five buildings containing administration offices, home economics, science and business instruction centers and classrooms.

There was no gym, no cafeteria, no showers, no playing fields, no swimming pool, no tennis courts, no auditorium. There still is no auditorium but in its quarter century of existence, Carmel High has acquired the other lacking facilities and many more including the team teaching lecture hall dedicated last month.

Through the past 25 years, citizens have again and again responded to Mr. van Riper's first rallying cry of "work hard" to obtain a school suited to the needs of this community.

Anthony Stone will be leaving his post as curator of the Carmel Museum of Modern Art on May 8 for an extended tour of Europe, via the Bahamas and New York, with his wife, Hildegard. They will use Munich, Germany, (Mrs. Stone's home town) as a base for their travels. Mr. Stone is at right above.

One of the highlights of the trip will be a journey along the Italian and French Rivieras and the Spanish coast to Lisbon where the Stones will board a freighter for Tangiers. From there other freighters will take them island-hopping throughout the Mediterranean to Istanbul.

The trip will be a combination of business and pleasure as Mr. Stone, in his new capacity as Danny Garcia's overseas representative, intends to explore the possibility of expanding the European market for Mr. Garcia's paintings. The artist already has his work in private collections in Canada and England.

In the spring of 1966 Mr. and Mrs. Stone will settle permanently on the Spanish island of Majorca where Anthony Stone will look for a suitable location for a second Garcia Studio Art Gallery.

Trout Season Opens Saturday

Saturday is the first day of the 1965 trout season. The California Department of Fish and Game announces that brown trout have been stocked in lower Arroyo Seco. To protect fingerling steelhead now migrating to the ocean, Big Sur River will not be stocked until just before Memorial Day. Carmel River has been stocked between Los Padres and San Clemente reservoirs.

The Department of Fish and Game notes that, for those willing to work for them, there are wild trout in the headwaters of the Carmel, Big Sur and Arroyo Seco rivers.

All waters stocked by the Department of Fish and Game are accessible to the public. However, some waters are bordered by private lands, and the department reminds anglers they should not enter private lands without permission. Trout season ends October 31. Ten trout comprise a bag and possession limit.

Demand Already Greater Than Space Available At Sunset

a Montessori school.

The city hall will be moved to the Sunset premises as soon after July 1 as possible and plans are for the city's building inspector to occupy the bungalow now occupied by the school district's director of recreation.

Mr. Bayless informed commissioners that these occupancies exceed space available by one classroom.

"Is it possible for the city council to rescind its decision to move the city hall to Sunset?" Commissioner Jean van Loben Sels asked Mayor Herbert Blanks who was present as an observer.

"Certainly it is possible but the likelihood is very small," the Mayor replied.

Investigation of possible rental fees that could be charged for occupancies at the Sunset center revealed to commissioners that little income to offset the $25,000 annual cost of operating the facility could be expected from this source.

The Carmel Unified School District made minimal auditorium charges to non-profit cultural organizations—or none at all—Sunset commissioners noted with some dismay. Charges for use of the auditorium by commercial groups were adjusted on the cost of a ticket to any performance and ranged from $50-$150 a night.

Commissioner Ted Fehring thought some revision of these rates were in order.

"We must use our judgment to gain revenue for the city," he emphasized. He was of the opinion that $100 might be a reasonable minimum nightly charge for the auditorium.

Mrs. van Loben Sels observed that every taxpayer does not go to cultural events at the auditorium.

"We must think of our duties to Carmel and the city council," she said in inferring that it was unfair to taxpayers to discriminate in favor of cultural groups when setting auditorium prices.

Commissioner Wallace Doolittle announced he was "strong for community uses." All facets of community use should be treated in the same manner without favoring arts and music, he stated.

"We must establish parity," Commissioner Peter Dyer declared. Considering the request of the Carmel Unified School District for free use of the present premises occupied by adult education pottery classes, Mr. Fehring observed that the school district drew revenue from a larger area than the city. He believed the adult school should pay for the pottery premises so that "the Carmel taxpayer is not burdened."

Commissioner Dr. James Gilman suggested that the Sunset Commission send in monthly written reports to the city as other municipal commissions do. He also proposed that the city attorney be asked to prepare a legal and proper master lease for the commission to employ when renting Sunset occupancies.

Another commissioner, Rear Admiral C. W. Fisher (USN Ret.), asked Mayor Blanks if any communication had been received from the recently incorporated Arts, Inc. as to any possibility of the Sunset facility being used by this group which plans to develop a cultural center on the Peninsula. "No," said the Mayor.

Mr. Dyer was elected to serve as temporary chairman on Tuesday night. A permanent chairman will be chosen after the seventh member of the commission is appointed at the May 5 city council meeting.

The next meeting of the Sunset Commission will be on May 10 at 7:30 o'clock in city hall.

Mayor Blanks told the commissioners present on Tuesday that they must prepare a budget for the city council to consider by July 1. All city officials were available to the new commission for consultation and advice, he emphasized, and also asked the Sunset Commission to consult with the city's planning, arts and forestry commissions.

Carmel High Business Program Is Inadequate Subcommittee Reports

tained from the Monterey office of the State Department of Employment disclosed that a student who has "just a high school diploma" has absolutely no chance of obtaining a job.

Weaknesses in the present business program were lack of teachers, standards, and prestige, she reported. Generally speaking, Mrs. Kramer's report states, the business program at Carmel High is negative; has no direction.

She presented in her report a sequential Grades 9 through 12 business program which included typing, office practice and machines, accounting, shorthand, business law and economics.

Mrs. Kramer further proposed that a teacher be appointed to head or direct a business department, also act as counselor to business majors. This instructor should, too, keep up to date on employment practices and requirements locally; act as liaison between local employers and employment agencies; keep the curriculum up to date.

Her last suggestion was that only full time business teachers be assigned to the business department.

She stated that she was submitting a minority report at the request of Mrs. Herbert Blanks, school board member in charge of the advisory committee on curriculum project.

Mrs. Kramer resigned from the subcommittee on business on March 17 because she felt that the subcommittee had not done enough research to write a thorough report.

Board chairman, Dr. Robert Newton told the business subcommittee that its report will be studied by the teaching staff and Superintendent Medill Bair will make recommendations on the implementation of the suggested improvements in business education.

On May 4, the board will hear reports from the subcommittees on mathematics, art and music. On May 12, the board will receive the report of the subcommittee on English.

Last week the Foreign Language and Science subcommittees presented their reports to the Board. Members of the language committee are Sabastian Bordonaro, chairman, Clive Rayne, John Sigourney, Mrs. Louis Gardner and Mrs. Richard Roberts; of the science committee, Don E. Harrison Jr., chairman, Stephen A. James, Evelyn Purvis, William M. Shanner and John D. Otter.

Norberg said the planning commission had not done anything to control motels, Mr. Keeble stated. He therefore asked that the city council be presented with the information that the commission had limited the development of new motels by creating the 1,000 square feet of site space for one motel unit requirement.

As a board of adjustments, commissioners granted a conditional use permit to Mrs. Charlotte Maynor. She plans to open a dog grooming and pet gift shop on the west side of Fifth between Mission and Junipero.

Mrs. Eloise Durr Steinable was given tentative permission to divide into three building sites the former Corum Jackson land on the west side of Rio Road between Mission and Santa Lucia. This subdivision will have a new access off Rio Road as well as the present driveway off Mission. Final approval was continued until a revised plan is accepted by the commission.

Referred to the commission's design review committee was the selection of new standards to replace existing street lights on Dolores between Sixth and Seventh. This block is the first area where the P.G.&E. will install underground wiring in a program embracing the entire business district.

Referred to the land use committee was Robert Little's revised plan to include two motels in one complex — the new name to be Sands and Snug Harbor. The plans show 100 percent parking and the addition of a swimming pool. The proposed complex is situated along Fifth between San Carlos and Mission.

BAY DAY

Mark your calendar! The fifth annual Bay Day Carnival, a gala "Round-up", will be held May 8 from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the "little red school house" south of Carmel on Highway One. Details of the fun-day, a fund raising event of the Carmel Parent Cooperative Nursery School, will be announced next week in the Pine Cone.

CARMEL FIREMEN ARE 'JOHNNIES-ON-THE-SPOT'

Carmel's ubiquitous volunteer firemen don't even need an alarm system—their built-in radar has them on the spot before anyone can call the fire house. Yesterday, when the gas tank of a steamroller working at the Plaza parking lot exploded, Chief Raleigh Belvail just happened to be driving by in one truck and Chuck Grimshaw just happened to be passing in another. The pair leaped from their trucks, fire extinguishers in hand, and rushed to quell the blaze.

Damage to the steamroller, owned by Norman Engineering, was estimated at between $200-$300. The operator was able to jump safely from the vehicle as it burst into flames when gasoline leaking from the fuel line was ignited by engine heat.
